Hi there!

Here's the interpretation of your astrological chart that you requested. I've also attached a graphic file showing your chart wheel. Thank you for visiting the Astro eXplorit website at <https://astro.explorit.net>. This report is created just for you, reflecting the unique moment and place of your birth. If you're unsure about the exact time, date, or location of your birth, some parts of the reading might not feel as accurate, but you'll likely find other sections resonate well.

You might notice some contradictory information in your reading, and that's completely normal! Many people have complex personalities—sometimes we feel shy, while at other times we can be quite bold. Additionally, you'll see certain patterns repeated throughout the report. This indicates a strong focus in your horoscope, so it's a good idea to pay extra attention to those areas.

Now, let's dive into your report!

Sun in Scorpio

Your basic urge is to seek structure through the order found in ideas, concepts and fundamental principles. These thought models and guiding mental images then act as a structure upon which you can build a life with a feeling of inner security. It is a search for inner values, for the meaning of life and death and can take you to the most sublime spiritual heights, or into the darkest hell. It is often in your own darkness that you will find the light to dispel others' shadows.

The Dark Side; governed as you are by thought-out, objective principles, all of life, even the feelings and emotions can be subordinate to the ideal. Others are blamed for your difficulties and an attack on your beliefs is seen as a personal confrontation which you are liable to repudiate with great intensity. Tolerance and more real consideration for others are required as it is often through your enemies that you will find the key to the meaning of your own life.

Sun in the second house

You value possessions and personal property because they give you a feeling of security. You need to feel that you belong to something or someone which will give a feeling of stability.

Moon in Libra

Your spontaneous response to any situation is to analyse it. In weighing the pros and cons and discussing matters fully a measure of detachment is gained and thus, with a bit of luck, no commitment need be made!

You are generally kind and affectionate to everyone and will have no lack of friends. At home harmony is likely to be important and a partner that displays love and affection will satisfy this need.

Moon in the first house

Sensitivity and a rich inner life enable you to find the right form for expressing your feelings and, through this, to find your place in the world.

Mercury in Libra

You like to bring together the many different qualities you see in the world around you, and get them working together in a harmonious fashion. Nothing is too diverse, it is all a matter of adjustment. Being forced to decide between points of view can make life rather difficult as both may seem equally valid.

Mercury in 1st house

Your mind is primarily directed towards yourself, i.e. self-expression may be important to you, or you may tend to be introspective, attempting to rationalise your actions and why you think as you do.

Venus in Scorpio

A striking thing about your approach to life is the intensity of feeling with which you approach it. Nothing is ever lukewarm, it is either hot or cold and somebody who is not for you is against you. Your values are very important to you and anyone who challenges these challenges you personally.

You evaluate life according to your set of principles and beliefs. If what is being considered does not measure up then it will be discarded. Some give and take might not go amiss, with yourself as well as others.

Venus in 2nd house

You value possessions and material things which give the impression of security. These also fulfil an aesthetic need. Harmony and balance are keynotes which give you a feeling of satisfaction and contentment.

You seek secure financial investments and maybe through material security romance can be found.

Mars in Scorpio

You put your whole being into whatever you choose to do. This may lead you to identify too closely with your actions. You may therefore see the reactions as a personal threat and then either attack or self-destruct.

More detachment is needed as this gives the opportunity to take control of the situations you get embroiled in. When you do take action there is very little that is going to shift you from your intended path, so make sure it's the right one.

Mars in 2nd house

Your energy is directed to accruing material possessions or something which can provide security. You feel the need for something tangible in order to build up a sense of belonging, a sense of values or a belief system. This then gives you the security needed for further action.

Jupiter in Pisces

The desire to expand your understanding of the world is undertaken in ways which are not limited to the normal process of reasoning. Anything which helps to earth these great ideals would be beneficial.

Jupiter in 6th house

Your ability to expand your experience of life is best expressed in work and service to the community. Your own personal desires and wishes are neglected for the sake of others.

Saturn in Cancer

You feel emotionally vulnerable and thus tend to build 'walls' around yourself as a means of protection. Others may see you as reserved and unwilling to express your feelings and opinions.

The desire for security may also be sought through some 'family' with whom you can identify. You need to look inwards to establish your own sense of identity. No one else can do it for you. The gift to be found at the end of this quest is an inner confidence that nothing can shake.

Saturn in 10th house

You are liable to be defensive about your standing in society and to want to improve it at all costs. No matter what you do it always seems to go on the rocks in unexpected ways. There is a need to slowly and patiently develop an inner sense of your own worth. This will protect you from both praise and criticism from the community at large.

Uranus in Libra

You seek to express your independence in a harmonious manner that does not upset other people.

Uranus in 1st house

You have an original and unusual outlook on life, but it is questionable whether or not this will find expression. It is likely, however, that others will get the occasional surprise when you assert yourself.

Neptune in Sagittarius

You go after your ideals in a far-ranging manner.

Neptune in 3rd house

You can tune into what is happening around you in a way that defies logic, portraying this in a sensitive manner.

Pluto in Libra

Transformation may occur in ways that are sympathetic to others' values and ideas. Justice and fairness are guiding lights.

Pluto in 1st house

You need to change the way you face the world. There is a tendency to be over-sensitive and prickly in your dealings with other people. This may be due to inhibiting and limiting factors within your own subconscious. You have a defensive attitude in respect to others' comments, especially about you, which prevent you from benefiting from them.

Ascendant in Libra

Essentially you are an idealist who, through these ideas, attempts to establish a place for yourself in the world. Your objective and impersonal outlook on life can be used to reconcile differences within groups. Although you are generally charming, gentle and inoffensive you can be rather single-minded in the pursuit of your goals.

Midheaven in Cancer

You admire those who care for and look after others. This may be on a one-to-one basis, or for the public or society in general.

The house containing the Moon "shows where your real vocation comes into clearest focus": i.e. this house represents a field of activity in which you feel at home.

Sun conjunct Venus - strong

You enjoy company and tend to get on well with most people, especially those of the opposite sex - but only if they match your sense of values.

Relationships are important to you as they give a sense of unity and meaning to life. You are also fond of the 'good' things of life but need to avoid overdoing it.

Sun trine Saturn - strong

Other people may call you lucky, but you well know that this luck is the result of good organisation and a lot of patient hard work. You usually like responsibility and the call of duty as this enables you to apply your creative energies.

You are normally quite clear about where you are going in life and seek and find opportunities to achieve your objectives.

Moon square Saturn - moderate

It is important that you know who you are and where you are going. Early losses or failures have made you clearly aware of your own limitations and potential, but these very difficulties can, if you are willing to learn, point the way forward. Feelings may have been hurt all round, but this is no reason to shut yourself off from friends and family. Only by working through these upsets will you be able to understand the emotional needs of yourself and others.

Moon conjunct Pluto - weak

Emotions run deep and you are likely to identify very closely with any ideals or causes you support. A sense of detachment is needed. Relationships may be too intense and sudden flare-ups may result as partners seek more space, or because you feel they have too much control over your own life.

Basically these over-intense attachments show a sense of inner insecurity and a need to re-define and transform how you feel about yourself. You are uncomfortable with your self-image because of past emotional conditioning. There is a need to remould your habits and instinctive response patterns into a form more in tune with how you feel you should be.

Mercury conjunct Uranus - strong

Inspired and original ideas come to mind without any effort. But sometimes there are too many ideas making it difficult for you to focus your energies on any one thing at a time.

Abstract ideas and logic fascinate you making it easy to break the bounds of normal logic and open up new mental horizons. You are able to observe life objectively and arrive at logical conclusions even when involved in emotional situations. Logic, however, is not easily applied to feelings and may not be the most appropriate way of dealing with a situation.

Variety in ideas and relationship are important to you. The ability to see one point of view from many different aspects is marked and truth is likely to be found or sought in all its manifestations. Your mind may also be over-active, jumping from one topic to another.

Others are likely to find you brusque and argumentative as in your search for truth no one is spared.

Mercury trine Midheaven - weak

Nothing gives you more delight than communicating your thoughts and feelings to the outside world. Whether this potential can be converted to a career activity depends upon many other contributing factors. The main impulse is to give expression to your ideas and thoughts that will have significance for others.

Venus trine Saturn - strong

A strong current of harmony and balance flows through your life. It might be expressed through creative, possibly financially beneficial artistic work.

Relationships are taken seriously, so that your circle of friends may be limited, but deep. You tend to feel responsible for those you love and will do anything in your power to help them - you have a sense of belonging to a wider family.

Your good judgement and sense of values will be of assistance in whatever career you choose.

Mars trine Jupiter - strong

Many of your undertakings are crowned by success making it difficult for you to see where you can go wrong. In fact, very little you do is ever wrong, but sometimes you are less than considerate to the unfortunate few who are not so lucky as yourself.

Sometimes you may not pay as much attention to detail as you should but, as luck would have it, you probably didn't need to in the first place! You love life and look on it as a god given playground.

Your greatest gift is to let others see how the joy of spontaneous activity can breed new life into worn out belief structures.

Jupiter square Neptune - strong

This is generally a kindly, spiritual, high-minded influence which urges you to treat others in sympathetic, considerate fashion. However, a highly impressionable and open outlook can sometimes make it difficult for you to separate fact from fiction. You need to be more realistic in all things.

Jupiter trine Midheaven - weak

Home and professional matters work hand in hand to give opportunities for further growth and development.

Jupiter square North Node - moderate

Relationships with your contemporaries are not favourable. You tend to push your ideas and beliefs against all standard norms and this arouses undue opposition. A more objective approach would help you to re-adjust your ideas and make them more acceptable.

Uranus trine Midheaven - weak

Flashes of inspiration can help further your career aims. These new and dynamic methods incorporated into your working environment can open up possibilities for further expansion.

Neptune sextile Pluto - strong

Creative ways can be found to blend the old and the new which can improve the social structure of society.

Neptune conjunct North Node - moderate

Your associations with others are liable to be vague and confused, but you identify with the idealists in life and receive their popular support.

Pluto conjunct Ascendant - moderate

If this aspect occurs you have Pluto in either the 1st or 12th house; the relevant paragraph should be read in conjunction with this one.

Life is likely to be a constant series of changes in attitude; because you feel everything so personally it is difficult to be objective in response to challenges.

The need is to change the way you respond to the world and the way you try to impose yourself on it.

Pluto square Midheaven - weak

You have an inner compulsion which makes you want to take control in your career. However, you may not have the authority to express yourself in this way and your colleagues may resent the way you operate.

Your urge to reform the world and the people in it pushes other people to stand up for their rights. This can be disconcerting when you thought you were right!

You need to re-assess your attitudes and the way you operate.

Pluto sextile North Node - weak

Your insight into the motivating forces behind contemporary beliefs and fashions gives the opportunity to creatively transform them for the betterment of all concerned.
